Mystery Outline

Originally hailing from France, Foxgang Luck moved to America and quickly rose to become one of the most famous fine dining chefs in the world. After a year of tremendous success, his long-time friend, Uma Vernon, decided to host a celebratory soirée for Foxgang Luck at the La Tour D'Argent on the Seine River in Paris, France. Uma flew the invited guests to Paris and the guests arrived to the scenic Seine River in style. The celebration started with cocktails and delectable hors d'oeuvres. The guests mingled and broke the ice with fun French trivia questions. Then, the partiers took on an amusing French Expression Challenge while enjoying a scrumptious meal until...one of the guests was murdered! The guests rallied together to figure out whodunit until deciding to take a break from the intense investigation with a hilarious 'What French thing could I be?' game. Uma Vernon called in a favor from an old friend at the City of Paris Crime Lab who performed a preliminary forensic analysis of the crime scene. This helped the investigation tremendously and the guests submitted their final guesses of whodunit to Uma. The guests took turns one by one accusing who they believed the murderer was and then to everyone's shock...the murderer confessed! While waiting on the police to arrive, the group entered a final challenge of Frenchtastic Charades. Overall, it was a fantastic night full of intriguing mystery and fun memories! That is...for everyone except the deceased & the imprisoned.
