	NORTH SNOW Tennis Player Optional Either	North Snow is the belligerent professional tennis player that suffers from severe anger management issues. North is extremely judgmental and this quality tends to offend the other tennis players, officials, and any spectators that may get in North's way.	Tennis costume with a Christmas sweater. Tennis racket as an optional prop.

Expandable players: two of the players can be expanded into teams of 15 duplicate players each. It makes sense in the story line for these players to be expanded into a team – it's written into their clue cards. Simply invite up to 15 players to play the role of Ginger Breadman and Harold Flake and when they arrive to the party, assemble the teams and ask that they select a lead character to play the actual character role. You can extend beyond 15 if you need to.

The rest of the team will still play with these characters' cards (you make duplicates of them) and mingle with the guests and guess whodunit – just like the rest of the players. The only difference is that the expanded team players do not have a unique story line of their own; they use their lead characters'. No worries – with a party this size, you will have plenty of people who will want to be in this type of role. Everybody may want to play, but not everybody will want the limelight ;-)
